MONDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 13.

The City of Washington. He is happily circumstanced who has his abiding place here. Good order, good health, constant demand for labor, and abundant markets are all vouchsafed to us. In the quarter of a century that we have known the great highway of labor in this country, we have never known the hard hand of the laborer to gather a higher recompense than the present year has afforded. How many houses have this year been erected we know not; but there is no locality in this whole city in which one may stand and lose sight of the recent handiwork of the builder. And we are informed by an intelligent mechanic that, late in the season as it is, probably not less than two hundred houses of all sizes have yet to be commenced.

The value of real estate has of course kept even pace with all this, as the rise in rents and the sales of city lots daily attest; and, in consequence, wealth unanticipated has often rewarded the discerning enterprise of men of moderate capital. A case in point may be

It was only a few years ago that John A. Smith, esq., the respected and accomplished clerk of our District Court, purchased for six thousand dollars a small farm, a little beyond the precincts of this city. A most valuable ducted to the capitol, and for this spring Mr. Smith received twenty thousand dollars. The labors of the commission to select a site for a National Military Asylum have closed, and, in pursuance of its recommendation, Mr. Smith will receive for his farm forty thousand dollars

We could name other gentlemen who own property that will soon realize most astonishing profits upon their investments.

These facts are not inapt indices to the prospect of the perpetuity of the bond that unites the States of our Republic. The faith of the people is shown in the prosperity of the capital of the heart of the Union!

Cuban Bonds.

The discovery of a printed form of a bond, with Lopez's name appended, in which promise future government of Cuba, if revolutionized, funds were thus raised, constitute proof that the leaders at least believed the people of Cuba were inclined to revolt, and would have a future government of their own. And had success attended Lopez, the possession of these bonds would have proved quite as honorable, and more profitable, than did the preservation of certain continental money once issued by a certain people, under circumstances their descendants do not particularly care to remember. The indiscreet and rash adventurers in this Cuban business. whether fighting men or capitalists, have well attested the sincerity of their declared purposes and expectations, and merit and will forever receive the respect of all friends of freedom; while their bloodthirsty and more impetuous destroyers and their sympathisers have entailed upon. themselves the undying contempt of true republicans in every clime.

THE NEXT SPEAKER .- " Crystal," a writer in the Norfolk Argus, remarks that "several gen- munity. tlemen have been named in different quarters as suitable candidates for this Chair; and among them one of the Virginia delegation, the very able member from Accomac, who distinguished himself in the last Congress as the chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means." "General Thomas H. Bayly," he continues, "discharged the duties of his responsible position with an ability and faithfulness that facilitated, in an unusual degree, the public business of the House and the Government. His high fame has gone across the waters, and he has been complimented by the proudest statesmen of England. No better man can be chosen to preside over the House. He is thoroughly versed in parliamentary law; acquainted with the machinery of legislation; prompt, mild, and just in his decisions; dignified and courteous in his manners; liberal and republican in his sentiments and sympathies. General Bayly's election to the Speakership of the next House of Representatives would give wite satisfaction in and out of Congress."

B. is very popular and highly respected by all everybody else! parties in this city.

RAILBOAD LIABILITIES .- In the Court of Comand New Haven Railroad Company, for injury editors are, if possible, still more ferocious! done Mr. Hunt by collision on that line. His step-daughter was killed on the occasion.

We hope that every injury inflicted, where the possibility of neglect is apparent, may prove the grounds of a suit for damages, until selfpreservation on the part of the companies shall us. bring about the most perfect system of precaution and watchfulness.

THE MARINE BAND, who for the past three or our months have performed twice a week for the entertainment of the public-alternately at the President's and the Capitol grounds-closed their series of concerts for the season on Satur-day afternoon. The weather being pleasant, a large number of ladies and gentlemen and juveniles were at the President's to enjoy the promenade and the music .- Republic.

A little effort might secure to this excellent Band a good and substantial Benefit. They have discoursed for us sweet music, and we have all enjoyed it well. Summer brings to us in Washington few greater pleasures than the promenades in the public gardens to the strains they breathe. We should surely requite them well, and especially when it is in our power to do so in so easy a manner as by means of one or two public entertainments. We have professional and amateur vocalists in our city who could perform as rich music in Odd-Fellows' Hall as its walls have ever echoed. Or other means may be suggested. The proposition involves an appeal to our liberality and justice.

The Richmond Republican, in quoting our notice of the Hogarth Cane, recently conveyed across the Atlantic as a present to Mr. Latham, says:

THE BANKER LATHAM .- It gives us great pleasure to transfer to our columns the followng article from the Washington Telegraph. Mr Latham is one of the most sagacious and energetic of the business men of this country, and combines with fine intelligence a generous, sympathizing, and liberal soul. He is one of Nature's noblemen," and we are glad to know spring upon it soon became desirable to the that he has won the smiles of Fortune as well as of Nature, and is coining money fast enough to keep up the dignity of Nature's patent of nobility. Mr. Latham is a self-made man, and by his own clear head and indomitable spirit has conquered obstacles which would have affrighted common minds, and placed himself upon a theatre which affords a wide field for distinction, honor, and usefulness. We rejoice in his success, and were it not an unwise and therefore an unfriendly wish, we could desire him to become as rich as Crossus. But, instead of this, we trust, he will be satisfied when he acquires the fortune of Girard or John Jacob Astor. We know that he will take care to distribute his money to deserving objects before he dies, and that he will not follow the example of some old skinflints, whose hands are never open till death unclasps their gripe, and of the country-the vitality and healthfulness who give their money to the poor from the same necessity which compels them to yield their souls to the devil.

We think the ceive as glorious a welcome as did the renowned existence of such bonds, and the fact that any Lafayette upon his return to the country whose liberty he had so ably assisted in achieving.

> AN ELOQUAT ADDRESS .- Dr. Junkin delivered an able discourse to the Young last night, in the F street Presbyterian church. The youth of our city constituted a large portion of his crowded audience, who were well rewarded for their attendance by the solemn admonitions and encouraging hopes so forcibly presented. The stricken family; nor fail to urge the prayerimmortality of the soul; the temptations to which youth are peculiarly liable; the ardent attachment of youthful love, whether for good or evil; the promises of the Bible, particularly addressed to the young, were among the themes as they follow Christ. embraced in his discourse; and it was listened to throughout with marked attention. We would respectfully suggest that a series of Sabbath evening discourses of this character, by one, and another, and still another of those the pastors of our city, would be peculiarly whose kindred worship with us. receive the support and sympathy of our com-

Hocus-rocus!-Toward the close of Signor Blitz's performances for the entertainment of the Orphan's school and other children, on Friday last, a gentleman among his spectators went out and purchased a basket full of kisses, &c., which he presented to the magician. The Signor set them aside for a few moments, when he exhibited a tin box full of canary seed. Upon this a boy breathed, as requested, when lo! the seeds were changed to kisses, and distributed throughout the hall! The little ones were all delighted; but some of them professed themselves afraid to eat the enchanted niceties.

Its object is stated ings will commence on Thursday night next, in to be "to bring together, in the most condensed Rev. Mr. Danforth's church. We understand to be "to bring together, in the most condensed and practical form, for public use and professional reference, all the facts and principles in medicine and its collateral sciences, pertaining to the philosophy of life and health, and the water-cure treatment of diseases. It is therefore designed as a guide to students and families, and a text-book for physicians." This design appears to us most admirably executed in the three numbers before us.

THE CHRISTIAN STATESMAN: A Discourse occasioned by the death of the Hon. James Mc-Dowell, &c. By Rev. D. X. Junkin, D. D. James Nourse, Washington City, 1851.

This discourse has been published in neat camphlet form, at the request of a number of gentlemen who enjoyed the opportunity of hearing it delivered. It is alike creditable to its eloquent author and honorable to its lamented subject. We quote from its pages:

"As the orator and Christian lived, so he died. But a few years had passed since he was called to bury out of his sight the loved companion of his bosom-distinguished for her beauty of person, her gentle, lady-like deport-'mountain-home,' was with the remains of a beloved daughter, whose dust he was carrying back to lay alongside that of kindred dust, in the old graveyard at Lexington; and for months past his friends had apprehensions that he would not be long behind the loved ones whose death he had so much mourned. None, however, unless it were his physicians, anticipated that he would be so speedily summoned away.

"When informed that his end was nigh he was perfectly calm and collected-laid his hand upon the heads of his beloved ones, and gave them a silent, unutterable blessing and farewell-declared that 'nothing else was precious but Christ and his promises'-asked his pastor to pray that he might have 'a stronger faith, more reliance,' and, in answer to the inquiry, if he had any other hope but in Christ, declared, (and they were his last words,) 'none what-

'He died as sets the morning star, which go Not down behind the darkened west, nor l Obscured, amid the tempests of the sky; But melts away into the light of Heaven!'

"It was the mournful privilege of my venerable colleague and myself to witness the passage of this distinguished man through some of the deep waters by which his earthly path was tremble. there was more of the moral sublime in the aspect of that Christian father, when bending n tearful solicitude over the couch of his dying child, pouring into her ear the language of Gospel hope and encouragement, and kneeling n fervent supplication for her spiritual peace, than there was even in the moment when his peerless eloquence had won its proudest tri-

"But he is gone! That commanding form that so lately moved amongst us, and bent in devotion in our sanctuary, now occupies a silent grave. That gifted, ransomed mind rejoices in the 'house not made with hands.' And who will say it is not well? Who will deny to the faithful soldier the promotion that is his due? Who will countermand the order that has bid him 'come up higher?' Who would repress the plaudit- Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord?'
"Let us be also ready! Let us acquiesce in

Let us not stifle the throb of heartfelt sympathy for his sorely Help, Lord, for the godly man ceaseth. us pray for help for our beloved country. Let us pray for help for our church, and for ourselves; in view of this and other recent bereavements, that we may follow the departed so far

"And how solemnly, my brethren, has the Lord spoken to this congregation by recent bereaving providences! First, we were called to mourn the daughter of the Governor. Then appropriate at this time, and would merit and tidings cross the ocean that an Elder of this church has buried his beloved daughter in a foreign grave; then this sad news from the of Virginia; and again, within the last week the death-knell sounds from Kentucky. and we are called to sorrow for the death of the lovely, accomplished and godly wife of our Attorney General, (Mrs. M. WILLITOFT; OR, THE DAYS OF JAMES I. A Tale.

Baltimore: John Murphy & Co. 1851. This tale, we are informed, is written by an American, who says of it that it "is addressed to the Catholics of England, to picture the sufferings endured in other days for their faith. to remind them of the patient courage of their forefathers in the midst of persecution, and to arrived. Read his advertisement, and prepare warn their persecutors how vain and impotent must always be the efforts of those who 'are found even to fight against God!" It is not written by a practical writer, we conjecture, and is in the style of the novels of a by-gone day. It is too florid, too vivid, and too gloomy to impart much pleasure in its perusal, though The Philadelphia newspapers are full of the evincive of talent on the part of the author. We can readily sympathize in the concluding line, one mind to the dangers and injustice of an intolerant spirit, I am satisfied.'

Death of Commodore Warrington.

It is our painful task to announce the decease of Conodore Lewis Warrington, of the U.S. Navy. He died at his residence in this city yesterday morning, at fifteen minutes past 5 o'clock, in the 69th year of his age, after an illness of severe suffering.

Com. Warrington was a native of Virginia. He was born in November, 1782, and, after passing his academic course at William and Mary College, entered the Navy amph, and listening legislators hung weeping on in January, 1800; so that he had served nearly fifty-two years. His professional services and brilliant achievements are interwoven with the history of his country, and are conspicuous in some of its brightest pages. He was almost the only one left of that noble roll of brave naval commanders who, in the war of 1812, achieved so much glory for their country by their brilliant victories against an enemy till then deemed invincible.

To high professional merit Com. W. added an amiable position and a modesty which won great personal es teem, and will make his loss sincerely regretted by the society in which he moved.

The friends of the family are respectfully requested to attend his funeral from St. John's Church on Tuesday the 14th instant, at 12 o'clock .- Int.

BETTER THAN GOLD!

PORTSMOUTH, July 9, 1851.
Mr. J. E. Bousu—Dear Sir: I feel it a duty to make known the benefit I have derived from Dr. Hampton's VEGETABLE TINCTURE. For a number of years I suffered from disease, but to a greater degree for the last three years. One of the forms of my disease was dyspepsia. From this dreadful malady I suffered to such an ex-tent that life was really a burden. The attack of it on me was different to that on any other person of whom I have heard; at times it was like the palpitation of the heart; there was a constant thumping and beating without intermission about the region of my heart, chest, and stomach; some of the attacks would last for weeks; my stomach was much distended, with constant pain, great weakness, and constination of the bowels. I could not eat the most simple food without pain. I also suffered greatly from disease of the kidneys, with constant pain in the back, that I could walk only with great difficulty. I tried nearly all of the most celebrated patent medicines of the day, but found no relief. I had also the best medical attendance. One of my physicians frankly told me it was of no use for me to be paying him for advice, as he could do me no good. I gave up almost in despair, and thought my disease certainly incurable.

At this juncture I heard of Hampton's Vegetable Tincture. I refused to give it a trial, although persunded by my friends, until my son purchased a few bottles, and requested me to try it; after taking it a few times, it had a most happy effect on me; my confidence increased, and after taking three bottles, my dyspepsia, or disease of the stomach, was nearly if not entirely cured. I now feel myself a new man, and in better health than for years. I am certain the cure in my case was made by this Hampheart; there was a constant thumping and beating with

I am certain the cure in my case was made by this Hamp-ton's Vegetable Tincture alone. Since my cure I have recommended the tincture to a number of my friends, who have also been relieved by it. Some of the cures who have also been relieved by it. Some of the cures have been as rapid and equally wonderful as mine.

I present my respects to Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray, the proprietors of this valuable medicine, and say to them its value is above price; and from my cure, and what I have seen of its effects on others, I shall ever feel it my duty to recommend it to the suffering. I have no doubtmany valuable lives will be prolonged by its uss. I hope the afflicted will cast aside their prejudices and give it a trial. Yours most respectfully,

(Signed)

John Luys.

The above is extracted from a letter from a gentleman sixty years of age, and of high character. He says; "I have given but a faint idea of my sufferings; I feel inadequate to the task." We also have received, in the last few days, letters from two of our most worthy and well-known citizens, giving two remarkable cures of spinal disease. But yesterday one of the oldest merchants reported that he was cured of neuralgia of the head, of years standing, and so had that his teeth fell out from its effects. Call and see letters. Was there ever so many cures, wonderful cures, made by any other medicina, All we ask of the afflicted is that they try Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, the great purifier of the blood and sures, wonderful cures, made by any con-fall we ask of the afflicted is that they try Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, the great purifier of the blood and cure for all chronic diseases, as dyspepsia, rheumatism, confuls, and all complaints of the stomach, bowels, &c. crofula, and all complaints of the stomach, bowels, & MORTIMER & MOWBRAY,
